That report identified trends in current SEND populations on the Isle of Wight and projected trends in demographics which may impact on future SEND provision. It identified where additional provision was required and made recommendations for its development to meet needs on the Isle of Wight.

One of the recommendations was to increase the number of specialist places for pupils with PMLD, LD and SLCN at both primary and secondary level to reflect the increase in identified need. There is a need for an additional thirty-eight secondary places.

This proposal if agreed would potentially create, subject to the outcome of formal consultation, twelve additional places at St. George’s special school in Newport, initially located on a satellite site at Nodehill 6th form Site in Newport.
